This month, I would like to move the focus away from our local League, and stress the importance of our State's League of Women Voters U.S. Senate Candidate Forum in Amherst, Massachusetts on Sunday, November 8 at 7:30 PM. I hope you can all join me, and the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts Board of Directors in watching this Debate, live, at the UMASS AMHERST College campus. We're expecting attendance to swell to around 450 to 500 guests, and we want YOU to be a part of our historic moment.

By hosting this forum, the State League is upholding it's responsibility and tradition of educating and informing voters. Again, please join me in participating in this historic moment. By attending, you'll get a chance to meet Mike Capuano, Martha Coakley, Steve Pagliuca, and Alan Khazei. For more information, please visit www.lwvma.org, or call 781-326-8944.

Thank you for being an informed, educated, and motivated member of our voting population.

*Best Wishes,
Greg Agnew
President*

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR MEMBERSHIP CHAIR

Prospective Members

Have you ever wondered about the perfect meeting to bring that prospective member? I think this month we've got one for you! It's Protecting Our Health From Toxics in Our Everyday Lives.

I was thinking about my neighbors with the little kids. Who wouldn't do anything to protect their kids from invisible things that might kill them? But then, I read about the linkage with breast cancer, and all cancers..... In short, this meeting should apply to all of us who are living and want to stay that way! A very good meeting for all your friends, neighbors, relatives - see you there!

PROTECTING OUR HEALTH FROM TOXICS IN OUR EVERYDAY LIVES

Protecting Our Health from Toxics in Our Everyday Lives

Tuesday, November 10, 2009

7:30 PM - 9:30 PM

Westwood Library Downstairs Meeting Room

There is an invisible chemical in your home, and it may be killing you right now.

More than one third of the U.S. population is suffering from a range of chronic diseases and disorders, including cancers, asthma, autism, obesity, learning disabilities, endometriosis, Parkinson's disease and others. Scientific evidence increasingly indicates that many of these illnesses could be prevented by reducing our exposure to toxic chemicals. Unfortunately, too many of the products that we use in our everyday lives are made from toxic chemicals that get into our bodies, even though safer alternatives are available. It can be overwhelming to learn all this information, and it can feel like as a conscientious shopper you need to bring a chemistry textbook to the store to keep your family safe! But this shouldn't be necessary. By teaming together, we can change the rules of the game on toxic chemicals and make safer products the norm. Come find out how.

Phoebe Joseph, organizer of this event, suggests you read the Newsweek Sept. 21, 2009 issue, page 57 under Health Environment entitled "Early Exposure to Common Chemicals May Be Programming Kids to Be Fat" by Sharon Begley. This article explains how toxics are turning little babies cells into fat cells (adipose tissue) and making them overweight! Who would have thought that's how we got fat babies and toddlers!

Our Presenter

Elizabeth Saunders is the Environmental Health Legislative Director for Clean Water Action where she has worked on toxics campaigns for seven years. In that time she has given countless presentations on toxic chemicals, led the efforts of the Alliance for a Healthy Tomorrow to pass the Massachusetts Mercury Products Bill, and acted as a lobbyist, media liaison, coalition coordinator, and grassroots organizer.
